

Gregory C. Smith (Greg or Sven)

Greg 'Sven' Smith manages his own aerospace consulting company in Oklahoma City where he serves the aerospace and defense sector, focusing on small to medium-size business growth and strategic planning. He has a strong emphasis on workforce development and education, seeking to capitalize on Oklahoma's top business climate.

Previously, he was the Site Lead for the Northrop Grumman, Aeronautics Systems in Oklahoma City. Greg also led NGAS Strike Division Sustainment growth, where he oversaw Northrop Grumman Strike sustainment planning including the B-2 and other strategic systems. His leadership oversight included program strategic planning, employee engagement, workforce planning, new business initiatives, and community engagement.

A retired Air Force engineer, combat-experienced bomber pilot, operational commander, electronic warfare and cyber officer, acquisition and requirements officer, Mr. Smith is also Chairman of the Board of Regents at Rose State College in Midwest City, Oklahoma, President of the Oklahoma Aerospace Foundation, a member of the University of Oklahoma Board of Engineering Advisors, and participates in various community workforce development initiatives.
